VOL. XLVII., No. 7.

NEW YORK, February 16, 1895.

WHOLE No. 1203

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

The Honour of Savelli.

By S. LEVETT YEATS. No. 161, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

This is the romance of a gentleman adventurer in Italy in the turbulent days of the Borgias, and few of the heroes of historical fiction have had more picturesque and stirring experiences. It is a romance of remarkable power and personal interest.

Noémi.

By S. BARING-GOULD, author of "Eve," "Red Spider," "Little Tu'penny," etc. No. 160, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

In this stirring historical romance the author traces a love-story through the dramatic environments furnished by Aquitaine in the stormy days of the raids of the Free Companies and the reprisals of the oppressed. The narrative moves swiftly, and the interest of the reader is never allowed to flag.

The Pygmies.

By A. DE QUATREFAGES, late Professor of Anthropology at the Museum of Natural History, Paris. Translated by Prof. Frederick Starr. With numerous illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

This is the second volume in the Anthropological Series. The author has gathered the results of careful studies of the small black races of Africa, and he shows what the pygmies of antiquity really were. The peculiar intellectual, moral, and religious characteristics of these races are also described.

The Great Ice Age,

And its Relation to the Antiquity of Man. By JAMES GEIKIE, LL.D., F.R.S., etc., Professor of Geology and Mineralogy in the University of Edinburgh. Third edition, largely rewritten. With maps and illustrations. 8vo, cloth, $7.50.

In this new edition the author has profited by the sources of information opened since the first appearance of his book. Nearly three-fourths of the volume have been entirely rewritten, and the remainder revised and rearranged. He has visited the regions described and verified the reports of others, and he makes a special acknowledgment to recent American students of the Ice Age. The new edition offers a comprehensive survey of this fascinating subject brought down to date.

READY MARCH 1st.

Volume IV. of the History of the People of the United States.

By JOHN BACH McMASTER.

8vo, cloth, gilt top, $2.50

The fourth volume opens with the repeal of the British Orders in Council and the close of the armistice concluded just before the surrender of Hull, and takes up the story of the second war for independence. The chapter called "The Return of Peace" ends the story of the war, and gives with great fulness an account of the treaty-making at Ghent. At this point a new era opens in our history. The war is over, the foreign complications which distracted the country since 1793 no longer trouble it, and the people begin to turn their attention to domestic affairs. The remainder of the volume therefore treats of our economic history. "The Disorders of the Currency" is a chapter in our annals which has never before been told. The chapters on "Political Reforms," the "Missouri Compromise," "Eighteen Hundred and Starve to Death," which treats of the hard times of 1819 and 1820, complete the volume, which is illustrated with many diagrams, and maps in outline and in color.

EARLY ORDERS SOLICITED.

D. APPLETON & CO., 72 Fifth Avenue, New York.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY

Will Publish Saturday, February 23:

Stories of the Foot-Hills.

By MARGARET C. GRAHAM. 16mo, $1.25.

Under this title Mrs. Graham has collected several short stories, some of which have attracted the marked attention of good readers—notably "The Withrow Water-Right," and "Alex Randall's Conversion," which were printed in the Atlantic Monthly; and "Idy," which appeared in the Century. These stories have grown out of Mrs. Graham's unique surroundings and careful personal observation, and they have much variety, vigor, independence, and strong portrayal of character.

Latin Poetry.

By R. Y. TYRRELL, Professor in the University of Dublin. Crown 8vo, gilt top, $1.50.

This series of lectures is the third given on the Percy Turnbull Foundation, the first being Mr. Stedman's on The Nature and Elements of Poetry, the second, Professor Jebb's on The Growth and Influence of Classical Greek Poetry. This volume discusses the various forms and qualities of Latin Poetry, and the most characteristic Latin Poets. The book contains not merely the lectures as they were delivered, but quite important additions.

Half a Century with Judges and Lawyers.

By JOSEPH A. WILLARD, Clerk of the Superior Court, Boston. 1 vol., 16mo, $1.25.

Mr. Willard, who has enjoyed an exceptionally extended and intimate acquaintance with the legal fraternity in Boston, has produced a book of much and varied interest. He gives first his reminiscences, which cover a long term of years and a great number of distinguished persons; then a large collection of anecdotes of the leading lights of the Boston bench and bar, in which are good stories alone.

The Fast and Thanksgiving Days of New England.

By Rev. WILLIAM DE LOSS LOVE, Jr., of Hartford. With Fac-Similes of Three Proclamations. 8vo, $3.00, net.

This is a book which appeals to every genuine New Englander, and also to students of history. Mr. Love has made a prolonged and painstaking historical study of those solemn and festal days which have held so conspicuous a place in the annals of New England.

The First Napoleon.

A Sketch, Political and Military. By JOHN C. ROPES. With Maps and Appendixes. New Edition. With a new Preface and a rare Portrait. Crown 8vo, gilt top, $2.00.

This book is justly a claimant to the attention which is now directed to all that relates to Napoleon. Mr. Ropes is peculiarly competent to write of his military career, and his book is an important contribution to Napoleon literature. This new edition is made specially interesting by the rare portrait which forms its frontispiece.

The Continuity of Christian Thought.

A Study of Modern Theology in the Light of History. By the Rev. A. V. G. ALLEN, Professor in the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge. New Edition, with a new Preface and a full Index. 12mo, gilt top, $2.00.

NOTES IN SEASON.

F. TENNYSON NEELY announces a story entitled "The Minor Chord," by J. Mitchell Chappie. The novel, it is hinted at, is a disguised presentation of the life of Mme. Nordica. Sir Arthur Sullivan, the composer, and Jean de Reszke, the tenor, are also said to be figures in the story.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have nearly ready a volume of interest to students of music in "The Letters of a Baritone," by Francis Walker. These letters from Florence cover a period of a year and a half, and give pictures of different phases of art life in Italy. They also announce Prof. Charles W. Shields' new book, "The United Church of the United States." Besides original contributions, the volume will afford a history of recent opinion on the question of church unity.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready in the Story of the Nations series "The Story of Vedic India," by L. A. Ragozin, who has also in preparation for the same series "The Story of Brahmanic India." They have also in preparation a practical handbook in the elocutionary art, by Hugh Campbell, R. F. Brewer, Henry Neville, and Clifford Harrison, entitled "Voice, Speech, and Gesture." It will have over 100 illustrations by Dargravel, Ramsey, and others.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready the following books: "The Phantoms of the Footbridge, and Other Stories," by Charles Egbert Craddock; "Hippolyte and Golden-Beak," two stories by George Bassett; "Modern Missions in the East," by Edward A. Lawrence, D.D., with an introduction by Dr. Edward T. Eaton; "The Literature of the Georgian Era," by Prof. William Minto, of the University of Aberdeen; "The Adventures of Jones," by Hayden Carruth; "A Farm-house Cobweb," a novel by Emory J. Haynes; "Men Born Equal," a novel by Harry Perry Robinson, and "Beyond the Dreams of Avarice," a novel by Walter Besant.

D. APPLETON & Co.'s announcements for February include the fourth volume of McMaster's "History of the People of the United States"; "Degeneracy," a brilliant if somewhat distorted analysis, by Max Nordau, of the literary, æsthetic and social phases of the end of the century; "Evolution and Effort," by Edmond Kelly, who discusses evolution in its application to the religious and political life of the day, with illustrations drawn from recent events in New York; "The Wish," a novel, by Hermann Sudermann (the author of "Die Ehre," a realistic play that may be familiar to Americans), with a biographical introduction by Elizabeth Lee; "Majesty," a novel, by Louis Couperus, translated by A. Teixeira de Mattos and Ernest Dowson; and two new novels in the Town and Country Library—"The Honor of Savelli," by T. Levett Yeats, a romance of an adventurer in Italy in the turbulent days of the Borgias, and "Kitty's Engagement," by Florence Warden. A series of little books dealing with various branches of knowledge, and treating each subject in clear, concise language, as free as possible from technical words and phrases, though written by writers of authority, is also announced. The series will be entitled The Library of Useful Stories, the first of which will be "The Story of the Stars," by G. F. Chambers, with 24 illustrations. Other volumes in preparation are, "The Story of the Earth," by Prof. H. G. Seeley; "The Story of Primitive Man" by Edward Clodd; and "The Story of the Solar System," by G. F. Chambers.

Allen, Grant. The woman who did. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1895. c. 2-223 p. S. cl., $1. [341]

The painful story of a young woman who honestly believed that the emancipation of her sex could only be brought about by freeing it from the bondage of marriage. She was the daughter of a Dean and a Girton girl—beautiful and refined; she is earning her own living as a teacher, when she meets the first man who touches her heart; he loves her truly and asks her to be his wife, but she refuses the legal restraints of matrimony, preferring a free union with him that could be ended at will by either. Her lover dies before her child is born; she is again thrown upon the world with her little girl, and lives the life of a martyr striving to carry out her principles.

Aquitaine in France, during the stormy days of the raids of the Free Companies in the fifteenth century, is the scene of a dramatic historical romance. Noëmi is the supposed daughter of the robber chief Le Gros Guillem and has a noble nature, which her environment of crime and bloodshed has not destroyed; her father's horrible reprisals of the poor are witnessed by her with deep indignation. She endeavors to prevent them, and is aided in her efforts by Jean Del' Peyra, whom she loves.

A story of the North Carolina coast. Jack O'Doon and Mercy Blessington, though belonging to different spheres of life, had been brought up as children together, fostered by Jack's mother. Jack is the mate of a vessel which is thought to be lost when the story opens; Mercy is the daughter of a rich retired sea captain. She loves Jack and is mourning his loss bitterly, when a young artist comes upon the scene. Jack appears again dramatically at his father's funeral, his love for Mercy still faithful. The ending is stirring and tragical, Jack dying the death of a hero for the woman he loves.

The same scene is used here—Cumberland, England—as in "The shadow of a crime." The hero is the opposite of the hero of that story. Hall Caine says in his preface: "In this novel the aim has been to penetrate into the soul of a bad man, and to lay bare the processes by which he is tempted to fall." The temptation is a woman whom two brothers love—to win her from his brother Paul, Hugh Ritson does not hesitate at a crime. He finds his opportunity in the misfortunes and sins of his mother, who has brought an illegitimate child into the world. The manners and customs of the Cumbrian peasants are realistically presented.

 Dr. Anderson was for nearly thirty years president of the University of Rochester. The chapters give the details of his birth and ancestry, his life as student, teacher, and editor at Rochester from 1853 to 1882. In addition there is a chapter entitled "A personal portraiture," indicating the dominant phases of Dr. Anderson's character and career, by Dr. Lemuel Moss, Prof. Morey, Dr. MacArthur, Albion W. Tourgée, and others.

 Paul St. Paul is a celebrated tenor, said to be the son of the Spanish Don Carlos who claimed the Spanish throne; a mysterious letter brought to him by a beautiful young girl, introduces a new element into his life; the girl becomes his ward and afterward famous as an opera singer; she is on the verge of marrying her benefactor, when she learns he is her half-brother. Many other mysteries and some love and several marriages complicate the plot.

 The attractive personality of a young English poet of to-day is presented under the disguise of "Narcissus"; the mental changes he undergoes in his young life are typified in the books he bought, and it is through his "book-bills" his biography is partly written; his various love affairs are also traced in
- outline, and many charming reflections offered by the writer himself on men and books. The work is written in a leisurely fashion and has little incident. A reprint of the third revised English edition, with a new chapter.

 The hero is a literary man and a Liberal; he had set forth his creed in the "Cry for liberty," a book that a few critics considered great. His whole career is changed by a chance meeting with a beautiful girl in the British Museum, with whom he is permitted to become acquainted, and to whom he loses his heart. To tell the story of this "woman of impulse" would be to give away the secret of the author's plot, which is fresh and novel, and full of surprises.

 The essays fall into two distinct groups, one dealing with the subject of Greek mythology and Greek poetry, and the other with the history of Greek sculpture and Greek architecture; they mutually illustrate each other. They are: A study of Dionysus—the spiritual form of fire and dew; The Bacchanals of Euripides; The myth of Demeter and Persephone; Hippolytus veiled, a study of Euripides; The beginnings of Greek sculpture; The marbles of Egina; The age of athletic prizemen, a chapter in Greek art. First published in the Fortnightly Review, Macmillan's Magazine, and Contemporary Review between 1876 and 1894.

and October 2, 1893. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1894 [1895.] c. '94. 100 p. O. cl., $1. [401]

The first address presents the position of medical teaching in America in 1877, points out its chief defects, and indicates the causes that had led to them and the evils to which they in turn gave rise. The second address, delivered sixteen years later, shows the advances made in the interval, and also the lines along which further progress should be made.

Di Savelli is a gentleman adventurer of Italy in the turbulent days of the Borgias. Unjustly accused of theft by a companion-in-arms he is dismissed from his command in disgrace; his life henceforth is dedicated to vindicating his honor and revenging himself upon his accuser. His career is a succession of the most picturesque and stirring experiences—rapid riding, fighting, sudden attacks, love-making, etc.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 16, 1895.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

WE heartily welcome the Booksellers' League—now entered upon a vigorous existence—to the broad field of activity which lies before it. It must, if rightly guided and developed, prove one of the most effective agencies conceivable for the improvement of the rank and file of the book trade, and for the development of a spirit of true fraternity and mutual help among men possessing common aims and common interests. The only wonder is that such an association should have waited so long to be called into existence. The Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association, from which it springs, differs from it in being a society for mutual insurance, not offering or affording (in fact, being debarred by its charter) opportunity for social intercourse. The benefits derived from the parent society have been so many and so important that its members have recognized the usefulness of an association not purely business, which shall serve to bring them into closer touch socially with one another, and at the same time offer means of mutual protection and advancement.

The definite "objects" of the League, as provided for in its constitution, are "the cultivation of fraternal relations of its members and the furthering of the interests of their respective callings." This is a broad basis, offering scope for almost unlimited development, expansion and improvement. The foundations of the society are well laid; it remains to be seen how fair and useful a structure may be erected upon them. While still in its infancy, the League, like most children, will probably find its chief employment in play; but, as it attains a larger growth, there can be little doubt that its scope will be widened, that it will set itself the work of remedying old evils, and that it will be a potent factor in raising the standards of the trade to the high level that all seek and few attain. It is, as has been said before in this connection, a remarkable fact that the book-trade of this country has never had a definite organization, social and official. If the nineteenth century has proved anything, it has proved the value and importance of such organizations to their members, and their power as a lever upon existing conditions. Little can be done single-handed; much is possible by concerted action. In a different sense from the scriptural injunction, "it is not good for man to be alone," and every thinking person recognizes at once that nowhere do we find such inspiration, help and encouragement as in mingling with people of kindred aims and exchanging suggestions and ideas. This is the raison d'être of the League; and with so good a "first cause" there is no reason why it should not thrive and prosper beyond the modest plans of its organizers.

The Critic, in its issue for February 9, prints the statistics compiled by THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of the output of the books for the year 1894, which show a decrease of 650 volumes compared with 1893, and then claims that "The Critic's record shows no such discrepancy between the two years. The number of publications received for review in 1893 was 2319; in 1894 it was 2317—a difference of only two. The number of publications noticed in 1894 was less by three than the number noticed in 1893." If The Critic had taken the trouble to sift our statistics it might have arrived at the conclusion that our results and its own do not vary so considerably as it seems to think. The difference between the books actually received by us in 1893 and 1894 was less than ten, though we outnumbered the books received by The Critic by 122. The difference in the totals occurs in the books published by houses who do not, as a rule, send their publications to the press, and of these, so far as we have been able to determine, at least 600 less were issued in 1894 than in 1893. The "moral" of our own observation seems to be that while the activity of the regular publishing trade was unabated, minor or occasional publishing fell off.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

ON the evening of February 9, about thirty members of the book and stationery trades met in one of the rooms at 115-117 West Twenty-third Street, New York City, to ratify the work of the Organizing Committee of The Booksellers' League, and to take action to call that organization into official existence. At 8:30 P.M. Mr. J. N. Wing, of Charles Scribner's Sons, called the meeting to order, and was by it chosen to act as temporary chairman. Messrs. A. Growoll, of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, and C. E. Savage, of G. P. Putnam's Sons, were chosen to act as temporary secretary and treasurer respectively.

Mr. Wing, after these preliminaries had been settled, called the attention of the meeting to the fact that 125 names had been promptly signed to the original prospectus of The Booksellers' League (first named The Booksellers and Stationers' League, but abbreviated to avoid confusing the new organization with the older Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association), which, so far as he was aware, is the first attempt in this country to call those employed in the book and stationery trades together to enjoy themselves socially. While this was the first object of the projectors of the League, he hoped that in time its scope would be widened and that it might be instrumental in elevating the standard of clerks in the professions with which the members of the League are connected. He for one was of the opinion that, as the field of the bookseller was year by year becoming more limited, so that he was less able to pull up his stakes and try his fortunes in a new and growing community, it was also becoming more and more necessary that he get the proper instruction and develop to the fullest extent his knowledge of his profession; the time therefore seemed ripe for an organization that would offer the means for mutual protection and advancement, as well as provide education through lectures and practical instruction by acknowledged masters; and he hoped that the Booksellers' League which those present were about to call into life might be developed along these lines.

The secretary was then called upon to read the following Constitution, which, with the exception of a few minor corrections, was adopted by the meeting:

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I.

Name.

Sec. I.—The name of this Society shall be THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

Sec. II.—The headquarters of the League shall be in the City of New York.

ARTICLE II.

Objects.

The objects of the League are the cultivation of fraternal relations of its members and furthering the interests of their respective callings, in such manner as the League may from time to time decide.

ARTICLE III.

Membership.

Persons more than eighteen years of age, of good moral character, connected with the book and stationery trades, and associate branches, and such other persons as the Board of Managers may deem proper to admit, may become members.

ARTICLE IV.

Dues.

Sec. I.—The dues shall be at the rate of twenty-five cents per month, payable semi-annually in advance; on the first days of April and October.

Sec. II.—Any member who shall be in arrears for dues for more than six months, shall be considered as having withdrawn from the League, and the Board of Managers, upon the report of the Treasurer, shall order the name of the delinquent member stricken from the roll of membership.

ARTICLE V.

Officers.

The officers of the League shall be a President, a First Vice-President, a Second Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer.

They shall hold office for one year and until their successors are elected.

Only persons directly connected with the book or stationery trades or associate branches shall be elected to any office in the League.

ARTICLE VI.

President.

Sec. I.—The President shall preside at all meetings of the League, and of the Board of Managers.

He may at any time call a special meeting of the League, and it shall be his duty to call special meetings of the League whenever at least twenty-five members shall in writing request him so to do.

Sec. II.—If for any reason the President shall be unable to act, his duties shall be performed by the First Vice-President, and in case of inability to act on the part of the latter, by the Second Vice-President.

Sec. III.—The President shall, with the Secretary, sign all written contracts and obligations of the League.

He shall perform such other duties as the Board of Managers may assign to him.

The President shall be ex-officio a member of all League committees.

ARTICLE VII.

Secretary.

The Secretary shall mail notices of all meetings of the League and of the Board of Managers, and shall keep minutes of such meetings, and shall conduct the correspondence of the League.

ARTICLE VIII.

Treasurer.

Sec. I.—The Treasurer shall collect all dues and fees.

He shall disburse such moneys only in payment of bills which shall have been approved by the Board of Managers.

He shall keep the accounts of the League, and report thereon at each regular meeting of the Board of Managers.

Sec. II.—He shall give satisfactory security, in such amount as the Board of Managers may direct, entered into by two or more responsible bondsmen, for the faithful performance of his duties.

Sec. III.—At the expiration of his term of office he shall submit to the Board of Managers in writing a final report with vouchers.

Sec. IV.—He shall notify persons elected to membership of their election, and shall certify to the Secretary the names of all newly elected members as soon as they shall have paid their dues.

ARTICLE IX.

Board of Managers.

Sec. I.—There shall be a Board of Managers consisting of twenty-four members.

They shall have general charge, management, and control of the affairs, funds, and property of the League; and shall authorize and control all expenditures.

Sec. II.—They shall have full power; and it shall be their duty to carry out the aims and objects of the League in accordance with the letter and spirit of this Constitution.

Sec. III.—At the first meeting of the League held, a President and twenty-four members of a Board of Managers shall be elected by ballot. The members of the Board, irrespective of the President, shall divide their number into three classes of eight members each, and the term of office of these classes shall be respectively one, two, and three years, and until their successors are elected.

Sec. IV.—Thereafter at each Annual Meeting of the League, a President, and eight managers to replace the outgoing eight, shall be elected by ballot, and their term of office shall be three years and until their successors are elected. In such elections a majority of the votes shall be necessary to elect.

Sec. V.—Vacancies that shall occur in any class shall be filled by the Board for the unexpired term.

Sec. VI.—The Board of Managers as soon as may be after each Annual Meeting shall elect from its own members a First Vice-President, a Second Vice-President, a Secretary and a Treasurer.

Sec. VII.—The Board of Managers shall at each Annual Meeting submit in writing a general report of the affairs of the League, together with the report of the Treasurer for the past year, and an estimate for the coming year.

Sec. VIII.—The Board of Managers shall hold regular monthly meetings, except during the months of June, July and August.

Special meetings may be called at any time by the President.

Eight Managers shall constitute a quorum.

Sec. IX.—Any member who shall be absent from three consecutive meetings of the Board without being excused, shall be deemed as having tendered his resignation as Manager.

Sec. X.—The Board of Managers shall prepare and enforce rules regulating the League rooms.

The Board shall also prescribe rules for the admission of strangers to the privileges of the League rooms.

Sec. XI.—The Board shall have power to make rules for its own government, and to prescribe and enforce penalties for violation of the same.

Sec. XII.—The Board shall pass and vote upon all applications for membership. Three negative votes shall suffice for the rejection of a candidate.

ARTICLE X.

Meetings.

Sec. I.—There shall be an Annual Meeting of the League which shall be held the first Friday in March.

Sec. II.—The Board of Managers may at any time, and the President shall upon the written request of at least twenty-five members, call a special meeting of the League, which request, as also the notice of any special meeting, shall state the object for which the meeting is called. At special meetings no subject not so stated in the notice shall be considered.

Sec. III.—Notices of all meetings of the League shall be mailed, at least 3 days before such meeting, to all members at their addresses as given in the League book.

Sec. IV.—Thirty members shall constitute a quorum at any meeting of the League: but no amendment to the Constitution shall be considered at which less than forty members are present.

Sec. V.—No person not a member of the League shall be present at any business meeting of the League.

ARTICLE XI.

Committees.

Sec. I.—There shall be the following committees:

- 1st. A House Committee.
- 2d. An Entertainment Committee.
- 3d. A Finance and Auditing Committee.

Sec. II.—All committees shall be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Board of Managers, as soon as may be after the Annual Meeting in each year.

Each Committee shall consist of three or more members: one of whom—the chairman—shall be a Manager.

Sec. III.—The Board of Managers may create, and the President, with the advice and consent of the Board, appoint such other committees, as may be deemed necessary.

Sec. IV.—Any member of any standing, or other committee may at any time be removed from office at any meeting of the Board of Managers.

House Committee.

Sec. V.—The House Committee, subject to direction and control of the Board of Managers, shall have charge of the League rooms; it shall appoint and discharge employees, receive complaints of members and report upon such complaints to the Board.

Entertainment Committee.

Sec. VI.—The Entertainment Committee shall provide for the delivery of addresses, lectures and essays, and determine what musical, literary or other entertainment shall be furnished at the League meetings.

Finance and Auditing Committee.

Sec. VII.—The Finance and Auditing Committee shall audit the account of the Treasurer quarterly and report to the Board of Managers.

This Committee may also act as a Finance Committee with such powers and duties as the Board of Managers may prescribe.

Sec. VIII.—The committees shall incur no indebtedness except such as shall be authorized by the Board of Managers.

ARTICLE XII.

Amendments.

This Constitution may be amended at any Annual Meeting of the League by a two-thirds vote of the members present. Notices of proposed amendments shall be furnished the Secretary at least thirty days before the meeting at which it is proposed to consider them, and the Secretary shall cause copies of such proposed amendments to be sent to each member with the notices of meeting, at least twenty days before such meeting.

The meeting then proceeded to elect a president and a board of managers. Mr. J. N. Wing was the sole candidate for the presidency and his choice was unanimous, the secretary being instructed to cast one ballot. The following were elected members of the board of managers:

J. B. Brigham	with The Baker & Taylor Co.
John Briggs	" The American Book Co.
F. Bruce	" Macmillan & Co.
Charles A. Burkhardt	" E. P. Dutton & Co.
C. E. Butler	" Brentano's.

W. R. Spinney	" T. Y. Crowell & Co.
E. F. Treat	" The American Stationer.
J. F. Vogelius	" Henry Holt & Co.
G. L. Wheelock	" The Century Co.

Before adjourning, the members were served with refreshments. The treasurer reported that thirty members had paid their dues for the first six months, amounting in all to $54. The board of managers held its first business meeting in the rooms of Henry Holt & Co., 27 West Twenty-third Street, at 8 P.M., on the evening of Friday, February 15, too late for notice in this issue.

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

FIFTEENTH ANNUAL DINNER.

ON Thursday evening of the 7th inst., upwards of one hundred members of the Stationers' Board of Trade and their guests sat down in Delmonico's cosy banquet hall to enjoy the fifteenth annual dinner provided by the Board. The room was tastefully decorated with flags, festoons of evergreen, and potted plants. At the guests' table, presided over by the president, Charles T. Dillingham, sat Messrs. A. C. Barnes, Edmund Routledge, W. H. Parsons, Murat Halstead, J. A. Taylor, J. S. Page, C. W. Dayton, Postmaster of New York City, and J. H. Kitchen. The other tables, five in number, were presided over by Messrs. P. Farrelly, Chas. McLoughlin, H. C. Bainbridge, and Andrew J. C. Foye, who also formed the Dinner Committee.

After the cloth had been removed Mr. Dillingham introduced the first speaker of the evening, Mr. A. C. Barnes, with the following remarks: "This evening we have met for our fifteenth annual dinner. In the years 1893 and 1894 the dinner was omitted because of the depression in business, and I desire to congratulate you, gentlemen, that you are in such spirit and feeling that you can have a dinner in 1895. Owing to the grip and to unavoidable business many invited guests have been kept away. Those who are here make up in quality for the lack in quantity. Some of them have consented to address you on subjects which will be announced, and I bespeak for them your close attention. Gen. A. C. Barnes will address you on the 'Publisher as Related to the Stationer.'"

Mr. Barnes in a happy manner described the difficulties and amenities of the life of a publisher—especially that of a school-book publisher—concluding his address with: "Let us recur for one instant to those pleasing scenes where the publisher, notwithstanding his bad name, wanders hand in hand with his brother, the author, and the other brother, the patron. I wish time would suffice to chant the glories of the gentle patron in all his range from bibliophile to bibliofool. You know them all and they all pay in the same currency, whatever they may do with their acquisitions. In his best estate the bookbuyer is a noble creature, entitled not only to our gratitude but to our highest respect and admiration. In closing let me quote to you a tribute paid by one of the most distinguished of those who have blest the earth and gone to their reward. It is: 'In affectionate remembrance of Henry Stevens, a lover of books, the volume of whose earthly career was closed February 28, 1886, and another book was opened, which is the book of life.'"

Mr. Edmund Routledge's remarks were chiefly complimentary to his American colleagues and American institutions. Among other things he said: "After a knowledge of forty years of America, let me say that there is one great and important thing in which I find no change whatever, and that is the welcome always accorded to the Englishman who visits your shores. It occurs to me that as long as Englishmen come over here they are bound to be received with open arms, and bound to go back to the other side imbued with the highest respect for everything and everybody that they see, and flattered as they ought to be by the invariable kindness and hospitality that they receive at your hands."

Mr. Halstead was the next speaker, and was followed by Mr. John A. Taylor, who very wittily and good-naturedly dissected the remarks of Messrs. Barnes and Halstead, giving rise to bursts of laughter and applause. Among the other speakers were J. Seaver Page, Charles W. Dayton and John H. Kitchen, all contributing to the rounding out of a very enjoyable evening.

The Stationers' Board of Trade has grown to be an organization of some importance in the book and stationery trades, and will no doubt grow more rapidly as the disadvantages under which it has labored are entirely overcome, and its increase in numbers warrants a larger outlay in obtaining reports as to the standing of all dealers concerning whom inquiry may be made. It is the ambition of the present officers and managers of the Board to extend its usefulness beyond that of a mere information and collection agency; in other words, while guarding the lesser material interests of its membership, to elevate also the status of the trades it represents. The Board already includes the best and most important houses in both the book and stationery lines, and its advance on the lines indicated should be a matter of very short time.

ENGLISH VIEWS ON THE EFFECTS OF THE COPYRIGHT LAW.

THE series of interviews with leading American publishers and men of letters, regarding the effect of the International Copyright Law upon American authors, which appeared recently in the New York Times, has been made the basis of a consensus of English opinions upon the same subject. Harold Frederic, the London correspondent of the Times, contributes to the issue of February 10 a long article, giving representative comment on the subject from leading English writers and publishers. The gist of the various opinions, as nearly as they can be summed up, seems to be that the copyright law has benefited both American and English authors; that it has not diminished the popularity of English books in America, as it was thought it would; that it has greatly improved the opportunities of the American author on his native heath, and that the success of an American writer's work depends largely upon its quality—in America, that is, for in England American books have as yet, with few notable exceptions, little vogue. Mr. Frederic's own conclusions are that English fiction is more popular in this country, where it outranks American fiction, this being "the penalty we pay for our career of piracy," due "to the fact that up to a few years ago 90 odd per cent. of the fiction read in the United States was English." This has resulted in making English fiction, even when intensely "local" in tone, familiar and agreeable to American readers, while on the other hand American fiction has made very little progress in Great Britain.

Among the contributors to the Times' symposium are Walter Besant, Conan Doyle, Joseph Hatton, Anthony Hope, W. Heinemann, and Robert Barr.

Conan Doyle thinks that it will be impossible to judge fairly of the effects of the law until it has had a fair trial, of at least ten years. "No one," he says, "can travel through the States and notice the great interest in literature, and also the gradual growth of a leisured class, without being sure that a great crop of native authors must spring up."

Mr. Heinemann, who looks at the subject from a publisher's standpoint, says that the law has undeniably benefited both American and English writers, and if books by American authors have not sold as well in 1894 as in previous years "the only deduction to be drawn from that fact is that probably they have not produced as good books as the English authors have. Next year the thing may be reversed, and they may sell ever so many more."

The most vigorous and entertaining of the expressions of opinion is that of Robert Barr, editor of the Idler and author of several books known to most novel readers. He says: "The American public has been raised upon purloined ten-cent volumes by British authors, and of course it is not going to change its food suddenly because a reasonably honest copyright law has been passed in Washington. Some generations hence I have hopes that a public will rise in America that will appreciate an American book. New York publishers tell me that nobody in the United States wants an American book, and as England has a mind of its own, and consequently does not look to any other country for its literature, the unfortunate American author finds himself practically without readers. But English authors are not the enemies of the American authors. The American author's worst foes are, as Mr. James Whitcomb Riley says, 'Right here to hum.' The tremendous odds against which the American author has to contend are, first, the Anglomaniac American publishers, and, second, the Anglomaniac American critics. So far as the American author is concerned, the literary papers of America are more Anglomaniac than the Sunday papers, and the monthly magazines have for years been hopelessly English." All of which is decidedly interesting, although Mr. Barr's sympathy for his persecuted confrère across seas seems to us somewhat out of proportion to the need.

THE REMAINDER SALE.

THE CLEARANCE AND REMAINDER SALE at Bangs & Co.'s started off on the morning of the 12th inst. with a fair representation of buyers who had come from nearly all the large Eastern cities, notwithstanding the obstruction to travel and the inclement weather. Among the out-of-town buyers we noticed W. H. Lowdermilk, of Washington, D. C.; J. McDonough, and E. A. Werner, of Albany; Mr. Snider, of Wanamaker's, and J. J. McVey, George Rigby, John Highlands, and a representative of Leary's, all of Philadelphia; Charles E. Lauriat, of Estes & Lauriat, representatives of R. H. White & Co., Larrabee & Co., and Chas. E. Brown, all of Boston. Among the city buyers were a number of the "stand-bys" of the old trade sales. The bidding was lively and the prices, up to the time of our going to press, unexpectedly good. Even the plates that were offered fetched fairly good, in some cases excellent, prices. In a future issue we shall give a list of the plates sold, and the names of the purchasers.

THE PROPOSED EPISCOPAL CHURCH PUBLISHING HOUSE.

THE scheme for establishing an Episcopal Church Publishing and Printing Company does not seem to meet with the wide-spread endorsement that it was hoped the proposition would receive. This company, its promoters urged, provided it secured the entire patronage of the Church, would be enabled to pay an annual income of not less than six per cent. to the purchasers of shares. The entire surplus earned yearly over six per cent. would be given to the fund for the relief of widows and orphans of clergymen, and of aged, infirm, and disabled clergymen. It was argued that the Methodist, Baptist, Congregational, Presbyterian, and other denominations have their own publishing houses in successful operation.

Mr. John R. Beecroft, of the Century Company, said to a representative of the New York Sun this week: "The scheme is chimerical, in my estimation, and will result in probable loss to the investors. The promoters lay great stress upon the success of the Methodist Book Concern. Now, according to the figures before me, that wonderful establishment paid a profit of less than four per cent. on $2,000,000. If, therefore, the Methodist Church, with all its machinery, is not able to pay more than four per cent., where will this new enterprise be, with its six per cent. to stockholders, to say nothing of the residue which is to go to one of the great charities of the Church?"

From the fact that some of the meetings of those interested in the scheme have been held in the rooms of the Church Club, the enterprise has apparently received the support of that organization. Concerning that phase of the question, Mr. Ludlow Ogden, the president of the Church Club, has written us as follows:

NEW YORK, February 12, 1895.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: In recent issues of your paper paragraphs have appeared pointing to a connection between the proposed Church Publishing and Printing Company and the Church Club of New York. The Church Club of New York is in no way connected with, or responsible for, the Church Publishing and Printing Company.

Inasmuch as there seems to be a more or less wide-spread misapprehension on this point I ask you to kindly insert this letter in the columns of your paper. I am,

Very truly yours, LUDLOW OGDEN,
President of Church Club of New York.

At the last meeting of the Church Club a resolution was adopted withdrawing the consent of the club that future meetings of the promoters of the Printing Company should be held in their rooms.

"THE DUODECIMOS."

A CLUB of twelve book-lovers calling themselves "The Duodecimos," writes Mr. Arthur Stedman to The Dial, "has just done an act of piety to the memory of Benjamin Franklin by reproducing in fac-simile Poor Richard's Almanac for 1733, from the only known copy of the original, in the Pennsylvania Historical Society's collection at Philadelphia. The fac-simile is printed on a hand-press made in Philadelphia before 1800, ink-balls being used in the primitive way; the paper is genuine eighteenth-century handmade such as Franklin may have used, but with a little of that 'wilful waste' of margin which the philosopher believed made

'woful want.' An introduction by the Hon. John Bigelow—in which is reprinted for the first time the diverting correspondence between Franklin and his chief competitor in the almanac business, one Titan Leeds—is printed in a modern type cast expressly for the purpose, on a handmade paper bearing the club's water-marked devices. The frontispiece is a portrait of Franklin etched by Thomas Johnson from the Duplessis pastel in Mr. Bigelow's possession; and interspersed with the text are thirteen other portraits of Franklin, apocryphal and otherwise, with notes thereon, reproduced in artotype by the Bierstadt process. One hundred and forty-four copies only are printed, twelve on vellum for the members, and one hundred and thirty-two on paper, which have been sold to subscribers. To insure absolute fidelity, all quotations have been verified by comparison with the original issue—complete files of which, dating from 1733 to 1758 (Franklin's period), have been located, with the exception of the issue for 1735, which is nowhere to be found. No pains or expense has been spared by the club (which is not a money-making enterprise) to make their first venture a success, and the DeVinne Press has produced a book which for typographical excellence and good taste reflects credit upon itself and upon 'The Duodecimos.'"

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

AGITATION IN FAVOR OF CANADIAN COPYRIGHT.

A DEPUTATION of the Copyright Association of Canada, consisting of the following gentlemen: D. A. Rose, vice-president; Mr. R. T. Lancefield, honorary secretary; Messrs. A. F. Rutter, R. L. Patterson, A. S. Irving, James Murray, D. T. McAinsh, Alex. Buntin, R. Southam, H. C. McLean, Wm. Brice, W. L. Billings, James Bain, jr., J. T. Johnston, W. A. Weldon, F. J. Campbell, and John R. Barber. The deputation was accompanied by Lieut-Col. F. C. Denison, M.P., and Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., waited on Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Charles Tupper, of the Dominion Cabinet, in Toronto, February 7, and asked that the Government enforce the Canadian Copyright act, notwithstanding the objection of English publishers. It was claimed that the present state of affairs has resulted in the almost total annihilation of the Canadian book publishing business; that the paper manufacturing business has also been injured immensely owing to the imperial act, which is practically prohibitive; and that the English and American publishers are trying to suppress one of the largest and most extensive industries of this country.

Premier Bowell said: "We believe that confederation gives us control over copyright. We must stand by our own act if we are to maintain our rights. As far as possible we must get protection for the Canadians. In reference to bringing the present law into force, we have promised long ago that we will not do so until the whole matter has had the fullest consideration in the Colonial Office."

Sir Charles Tupper, said: "If the contention of the imperial authorities is correct, the Canadian Confederation act is so much waste paper, and we have not responsible government. We are going to fight out the question on these lines."

OBITUARY NOTES.

J. K. HOYT, who was for many years engaged in editorial and literary work, died at the house of a relative in Plainfield, N. J., on the 8th inst., aged sixty-nine. Mr. Hoyt was born in New Jersey, and began business in New Orleans as a factor for plantations, amassing a fortune, which he afterwards lost. He was also in the hardware business in New York City. He became editor of The New Brunswick (N. J.) Times, and afterwards edited The Journal, Advertiser and Times in Newark. About twenty years ago he removed to Florida. He made the first translation of Jules Verne's "Journey to the Moon," and with the assistance of Anna L. Ward compiled "The Cyclopædia of Practical Quotations," published by the Funk & Wagnalls Co.

GEORGE W. WOODWARD, bookseller and stationer, Louisville, Ky., whose death occurred January 22, was sixty-seven years old. He was a native of Boston, Mass., where he married Christina Anderson, who survives him. There were four children, of whom but one survives. About sixteen years ago Mr. Woodward removed to Louisville, Ky., where he opened a second-hand book-store on Jefferson Street. The book-store was in the second story of an old private residence, and as he dealt largely in interesting old books, scrap-books, relics, etc., the place became widely patronized. He afterwards removed to one of the stores belonging to the Polytechnic Society. He was quite successful in his business, and of late years had been carrying a line of fine books and stationery, while he had confined the second-hand trade exclusively to school-books.

CHARLES GAYARRE, the Louisiana historian, died on the 11th inst. in New Orleans. He was probably one of the most widely known of literary men in the South. He was born in New Orleans Jan. 9, 1805, and was educated in the classics in Louisiana and in law at Philadelphia. He practised law in New Orleans, and in 1831 was appointed Deputy Attorney-General. The following year he was elected Judge of the City Court. About the same time he was sent to the State Legislature, of which he was a member for several terms, and which body, in 1835, elected him to a seat in the United States Senate. This position he never assumed, owing to an illness which necessitated his resigning the honor. After that time Judge Gayarre devoted himself to law and literature. His history of Louisiana, published about fifteen years before the war, is his best-known work. His other well-known works are "A Romance of the History of Louisiana," "History of Philip II.," and two works of fiction, "Aubert Dubayet" and "Fernando Lelanos." In late years he was a constant contributor of historical articles to the monthly magazines.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

GEORGES OHNET has completed a new novel, entitled "The Woman in Gray."

BALZAC's letters to Mme. Hanska are to be published soon in book form.

COUNT TOLSTOI has just finished another work, which is called "Priceless Wealth and all the Trouble Attached to It."

THE author of "A Superfluous Woman" has written a new novel. It is entitled "Transition," and will be published by The J. B. Lippincott Co.

DR. CONAN A. DOYLE will write for the Strand a new series of short stories, to be entitled "The Adventures of Brigadier Gerard," the hero of which is a cavalry officer in Napoleon's Grand Army.

CONAN DOYLE thinks he has a worthy successor to "Sherlock Holmes" in the new character which is the central figure of his new "Adventures of Brigadier Gerard," a series which is about to commence in The Strand Magazine, the same periodical in which "Sherlock Holmes" made his first bow to the public.

AN "Authors' Afternoon" will be given on the 20th inst. by Miss Mary S. Thompson, at the Woman's Exchange Building, New York City. Miss Thompson will be assisted by Miss Edith Thomas, who will recite an original poem entitled "Chelonis, a Daughter of Sparta," and Dr. S. R. Elliott, who will read an unpublished story of the war, called "The Two Deserters."

THE AMERICAN AUTHORS' GUILD, which has now a membership of about 250, and is increasing at an average of about 25 members a month, at its recent monthly meeting appointed an Entertainment Committee, to meet on April 20, to arrange a programme of authors' readings to be given at Music Hall. The committee is composed of Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Dr. Coan, Gen. Wilson, and F. D. Thomas. It is expected that at this entertainment a number of well-known readers will be present. The Committee on Postal Reform reported that a bill will be introduced at the next session of Congress providing that authors' manuscripts may pass through the mails at third-class rates.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

MR. F. MADAN has been long engaged in the compilation of a "Summary Catalogue of Western Manuscripts in the Bodleian Library at Oxford which have not hitherto been catalogued in the Quarto Series." Vols. I. and II. will consist of a new edition of the Old Catalogue of Bodleian MSS., by Dr. E. Bernard and others, published in 1697; vol. III. (collections received during the eighteenth century) will be issued immediately; and the work will extend to six volumes in all. Among collections and correspondence summarized in the forthcoming volume are those of Grabe, Hody, Richard Rawlinson, Cherry, Bernard, Hearne, Thomas Smith, Thomas Carte, John Walker, Ballard, Browne Willis, and other eighteenth century scholars. Many of them are of considerable interest for the general history of Great Britain, and for colonial and foreign topography, as well as for the history of many branches of learning.

JOHN BELLOWES, Gloucester, Eng., is printing a limited number of "The Bibliographer's Manual of Gloucestershire Literature," being a classified catalogue of books, pamphlets, broadsides, and other printed matter relating to the county of Gloucester, or to the city of Bristol, with descriptive and explanatory notes. The joint authors, who have been engaged on the work for seven years past, are F. A. Hyett, deputy-chairman of the Gloucestershire Quarter-Sessions, and the Rev. W. Bazeley, rector of Matson, near Gloucester. They have confined themselves strictly to books of topographical interest; that is to say, they have excluded, for the most part, works on general subjects whose only association with the county is that they are by local authors, or were locally printed. In addition to an index of authors and local printers, there will be a special bibliography of Chatterton and the Rowley poems. The work will form three volumes of not less than 400 pages each, the first of which will be ready shortly.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION, Washington, D. C., has issued a "Bibliography of Aceto-Acetic Ester and its derivatives," by Paul H. Seymour, instructor in chemistry, Lake Forest Univ., Mich. It has been the purpose of the compiler, who worked under the direction of Professor Albert B. Prescott, of the University of Michigan, and the assistance of Professor Paul C. Freer, of the same university, to point out the existing literature upon aceto-acetic ester rather than to make an addition to this literature. The outlines of memoirs are therefore given, not to enable the reader to do without the originals, but to help him to find just the ones he may require. The word "ester" has been used to mean an acid in which the carboxylic hydrogen has been replaced by an alkyl radical, and, where the alkyl radical is not specified, ethyl is understood. The bibliography is arranged in chronological order, with author and subject indices appended. (Smithsonian Miscellaneous Collections, 970, 10+148 p. 8°, pap.)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—E. George & Son, 76 Whitechapel Road, London, Eng., Miscellaneous second-hand. (No. 11, 579+titles.)—Henry Gray, 47 Leicester Sq., London, Choice books and some important MSS. (No. 159, 729 titles.)—George H. Rigby, 1113 Arch St., Phila., Modern publications. (No. 13, 612 titles.)—Chas. Steigerwalt, 130 E. King St., Lancaster, Pa., Early American maps and plans (8 p. 12°); Books on Washington, Early American imprints, almanacs, etc. (8 p. 4°); American history, mostly with portraits, views, and maps. (4 p. 4°)—Truth-Seeker Co., 28 Lafayette Pl., N. Y., Free-thought and scientific books. (66+p. 16°).

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

STONE & KIMBALL will soon publish R. L. Stevenson's last story, "St. Ives."

MR. CLARENCE CALDWELL, formerly of Brentano's, will hereafter represent Estes & Lauriat on the road. His New York address will be 70 Fifth Avenue.

DAVID MCKAY has purchased the plates of Francatelli's "Modern Cook," formerly issued by T. B. Peterson & Bros., and will shortly publish a new and cheaper edition.

CONTRIBUTIONS to the projected "English Dialect-Dictionary" should be sent through the American Dialect Society, of which Mr. E. H. Babbitt, Columbia College, is secretary.

HARPER & BROTHERS have nearly ready in book form Hayden Carruth's brief humorous sketches which have been appearing in Harper's

Weekly under the title of "The Adventures of Jones."

THE three next volumes in the Badminton Library, published in this country by Little, Brown & Co., will be: "Dancing," by Mrs. Lilly Grove; "Billiards," by Major W. Broadfoot, and "Modern Sea-Fishing," by John Bickerdyke, with contributions on foreign fish and tarpon by W. Senior and A. C. Harmsworth, and illustrations by C. Napier Hemy.

"A SHORT History of the Various Editions of the Holy Bible" is the title of a neat little eight-page folder issued by A. J. Holman & Co., Ltd. It gives a chronological list, with brief explanatory annotations of the well-known editions of American Bibles, beginning with the Eliot Bible of 1663, then noting the Saur Bible, the Henchman, or Kneeland & Green Bible, the Aitkin Bible, etc., down to the Holman Bible of 1872 and its later improved editions.

MR. STAN. V. HENKELS, the Philadelphia auctioneer, will sell in the latter part of March, at Thomas Birch's Sons, a collection of autograph letters and historical papers that cannot fail to interest, not only autograph collectors, but all interested in historical matters. If the collection contains what is claimed for it in the advertisement on another page of this issue, it will certainly be one of the most important sales that has taken place for years. Mr. Henkels is preparing a catalogue that is to be elaborately printed.

H. GREGORY, Providence, R. I., has in press an "Alphabetical Index of the Births, Marriages and Deaths, recorded in Providence from 1871 to 1890 inclusive," to be completed in six large octavo volumes. The preface to the work will be by Charles V. Chapin, city registrar of Providence. The first volume, containing the marriages from 1871 to 1880, will be ready early in March; succeeding volumes to appear at intervals of five or six months. The edition is limited to 125 sets, 100 of which are for sale by subscription.

DR. J. C. STOCKBRIDGE, Providence, R. I., has recently issued a volume of interest to those whose tastes lie in the direction of genealogical research, entitled the "Memorials of the Mauran Family." A part of the materials used in the compilation of this volume was collected by the late James Eddy Mauran, of Newport, R. I. Dr. Stockbridge has also recently issued a new illustrated edition of his "Memoir of Rev. Baron Stow, D.D.," a work that is of especial interest to clergymen and Sunday-school teachers connected with the Baptist denomination.

WOLF & Co., the well-known art publishing firm of Philadelphia, are enlarging their field, and will hereafter give especial attention to the printing of fine art cards for all purposes, including lines for the Easter, Christmas, and New Year seasons. They have also in preparation a series of fine art books, printed in colors, for adults and young people, as well as a series of art novelties. The firm will hereafter publish in this country Dean & Son's famous line of toy-books. They are establishing branch offices in New York, Chicago, and San Francisco. Mr. William J. Kelly, at various times traveller for Lee & Shepard, McLoughlin Bros., and Raphael Tuck & Sons, will represent Messrs. Wolf & Co. on the road.

PREPARATIONS are being made by a few of the most prominent bibliophiles and art collectors of Chicago for an exhibition of rare and costly bookbindings at the Art Institute the last week in February. The exhibition will be held under the auspices of the Caxton Club, an organization of book connoisseurs which was recently incorporated at Springfield, Ill. The incorporators are George A. Armour, Charles J. Barnes, J. Vance Cheney, W. I. Way and others, the number of members in the club being limited to ten. While but few of the members lay claim to the distinction of being bibliophiles, they are all interested in books and bindings, and each has a more or less interesting collection of which he is very proud.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have published a series of "Famous Queens and Martha Washington Paper Dolls," by Elizabeth S. Tucker, artist of "A Year of Paper Dolls." The set represents Queen Isabella of Spain, 1492; Queen Elizabeth of England, 1558; Queen Marie Antoinette of France, 1789; Martha Washington, 1775; Queen Louise of Prussia, 1797; Queen Victoria of England, 1837; and Queen Margherita of Italy, 1868. Miss Tucker has given the features of the different historical characters, as well as accurate representation of different costumes worn by them, adapting them especially for kindergartens and schools for children. The water-color sketches have been admirably reproduced in colors, and in a high grade of work rarely used in publications of this kind.

AMONG the most interesting of Macmillan & Co.'s announcements is that of their Illustrated Standard Novels—a series of reprints of famous English works of fiction. An introduction by a critic of acknowledged competence will be contributed to each, and they will be fully illustrated by the most prominent artists of the day. The first volume, containing "Castle Rackrent" and "The Absentee," by Maria Edgeworth, the introduction by Anne Thackeray Ritchie, and the charming illustrations by Miss Hammond, is now ready, and will be followed at intervals of a month by works of similar interest. They will publish shortly a critical edition of Philo "About the Contemplative Life," by F. C. Conybeare, who strongly upholds the genuineness of the treatise; a revised text of "The Politics of Aristotle," with introduction, analysis and commentary by Prof. Franz Susemihl, of Greifswald, and R. D. Hicks, of Trinity College, Cambridge; also a new edition of the entire series of the English Men of Letters series in thirteen monthly volumes, the first of which will contain Prof. Ward's "Chaucer," Dean Church's "Spenser," and Saintsbury's "Dryden."

WILLIAM R. JENKINS has two delightful games intended to smoothen the difficulties of the German and French languages, and to offer a vocabulary to the students who use it in hours of recreation. Helène J. Roth, who has prepared both games, is an experienced teacher, who recognizes the weariness of learning by rote long lists of words, and aims to disguise as recreation some necessary study that in another form would prove onerous and uninteresting. For the German pupils she has planned a game of "Authors," to be known as "Das deutsche litteratur spiel." It consists of 100 cards arranged in sets of four, to be played as the well-known English game of "Authors." The card containing the author's name as leading word gives a short account of his life and leading works. The French student will delight in "The Table Game," intended to familiarize pupils with names of objects common about a dining-room and those ordinarily placed upon the table. All conversation in the game must be French, and the principle of the game is like that of "Authors." The ingenious teacher has also nearly ready games of "Animals" and "Botany" in the French language.

FOREIGN NOTES.

CHATTO & WINDUS have just issued Justin H. McCarthy's new novel, "A London Legend."

ELLIOT STOCK, London, has just issued the new volume of "Book Prices Current," containing the result of the book sales during 1894. Several fresh features which have not appeared in the earlier volumes mark the new one.

METHUEN & Co., London, have just issued a volume by the sister of the author of "Dodo," Miss Margaret Benson, which is entitled "Subject to Vanity," and treats of cats and dogs, birds and other pets, and the author's experiences of them.

LAST month the firm of Johannes Schweighauser, publishers and booksellers of Basel, celebrated the fourth centennial of the existence of the establishment of its house. The firm was founded in 1488 by Johannes Petri, who was succeeded, in 1511, by his nephew, Adam Petri, upon whose death, in 1525, the business went into the hands of his son, Heinrich Petri, who was knighted by Charles V. The Petri family continued the business until 1660, when it was transferred to Emanuel Thurneisen. In 1755, Johannes Schweighauser succeeded to the business and in his name it has been continued until the present day, though its present proprietor is Benno Schwabe.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as "not having been received."

JOHN BULL & CO.

THE GREAT COLONIAL BRANCHES OF THE FIRM

Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.

By MAX O'RELL, author of "Jonathan and His Continent," "A Frenchman in America," "John Bull, Jr.; or, French as She is Traduced," "English Pharisees, French Crocodiles," "Jacques Bonhomme," etc. In one volume, extra cloth, with illustrations. Price, $1.50.

"Max O'Rell has written much about 'John Bull' and 'Jonathan and His Continent,' and his new book, admirably Englished by Madame Blouët, gives an account of his impressions of the English Colonies. It is always good to see ourselves as others see us. Max O'Rell is no mere lampooner who visits a country in order to scrape together materials with which to vilify his hosts. He has cast his lot in with us, and he has, in a manner, given hostages to fortune. We may, therefore, accept his testimony as that of an honest witness, prejudiced, no doubt, and unable to sympathize with much that we regard as the best elements in our National character, but perhaps all the more valuable on that account. He deals unmercifully with our besetting sins. But faithful are the blows of a friend, and we welcome even exaggerated censure, in the hope that it may be the means of rousing our people to a much-needed reformation."—WM. T. STEAD, in Review of Reviews.

The People's Life of William

Ewart Gladstone.

Profusely illustrated. 1 vol., 12mo.
Price, 75 cents.

A brief sketch of the great statesman, giving the principal facts in his career down to his retirement from public life last year. Numerous sources have been resorted to for the material, among others Mr. Barnett Smith's "Life of Mr. Gladstone," Mr. Justin McCarthy's "History of our own Times," Mr. T. P. O'Connor's "Parnell Movement," etc., etc., and the book is embellished with 55 illustrations.

Joanna Traill, Spinster.

By ANNIE E. HOLDSWORTH. Cloth,
12mo. Price, $1.00.

Miss Holdsworth is one of the most popular of the younger English novelists, and in this book treats of the now widely agitated question of individual rescue-work among fallen women. While presenting a possible solution of the question, the book is primarily a well-planned and interesting novel.

A BUNDLE OF LIFE.

By JOHN OLIVER HOBBS, author of "A Study in Temptations," "Some Emotions and a Moral," "The Sinner's Comedy." Bound in flexible cloth, unique in form and size for the pocket, 50 cents per vol.

"These slender little books have a charm all their own, and for travelling they are simply perfect. No trouble to carry or to hold when reading them, the print clear and good, one has a really superior book for a small outlay. Then the contents are choice, and the authors, though they are unknown, or partly so, are evidently no novices at novel making."—Toledo Journal.

JACK O'DOON.

An American Novel by MARIA BEALE.

The story of a great sacrifice. It is quick in action, with stirring episodes on land and sea. The scene is laid on the coast of North Carolina. The picture of the old sea-captain's peculiar household is new in fiction. The tragic climax is original and impressive.

Special Notice to Autograph Collectors.

The Collection of J. H. ROGERS, Esq., of Newcastle, Delaware, and the Magnificent Collection of a prominent Gentleman of the West, will be sold the latter end of March, 1895, by STAN. V. HENKELS, Auctioneer, at the Book and Autograph Salesrooms of THOMAS BIRCH'S SONS, 1110 Chestnut St., Phila.

THIS will make one of the most interesting sales I have ever made, and when it is taken into consideration that I have made some of the most important sales of modern times, the value of this collection will be understood.

THE ROGERS COLLECTION.

Mr. ROGERS, who is a Son of the late Chief-Justice of Delaware, and Son-in-law of the late E. D. Ingraham, has with particular care preserved the Revolutionary papers which he inherited from his father and relatives, which embrace the Commission of Benedict Arnold as Major-General, Letters from General Washington to Gen. Benedict Arnold, and letters from Gen. Benedict Arnold to Washington; Gen. Washington's Address from Valley Forge, February, 1778. Important letters of other Revolutionary Generals, including the last letter written by Gen. Richard Montgomery to Sir Guy Carleton demanding the surrender of Quebec; 1776 Letters of the Signers, and Rare Revolutionary Muster and Enlistment Rolls, containing the names of the Signers, Revolutionary Broad-sides, Early American Play-bills, and a variety of other interesting matter.

THE COLLECTION OF A WESTERN GENTLEMAN.

The collection of a Western gentleman (whose name I may divulge at a later date) is peculiarly rich in literary names, containing the originals of "The Star Spangled Banner," "Hail Columbia," "America," "The Old Oaken Bucket," "Home, Sweet Home," "The Hemlock Tree," and about seventy five other original poems by eminent English and American Poets. Full Autograph Letters of English and American Popular Authors, all more or less referring to work that they have published or intend to publish. Letters of English and American Artists, Statesmen, Actors, Scientists, Historians, etc. In fact, the owner of the collection only selected such letters as were of particular interest, or referred to the life-work of the writer.

The sale will be an opportunity that, I am safe in saying, can seldom, if ever, be offered again. There is no trash in it, every item is important.

ALSO

A Collection of Rare and Scarce Engraved American Portraits and Views, Private Plates, etc.

Send Name and Address, with 20 cents in stamps, for Catalogue to STAN. V. HENKELS, 1110 Chestnut Street.

 I wish it to be distinctly understood that this is no Dealers' Stock; no dealer has any interest in it, whatever.
